Paris, 12 November 2026

Launch of Overtone, an independent consultancy specialising in financial communications, corporate language services and publication advisory Overtone, an independent financial communications firm, announces its launch. The firm brings together specialist language services, editorial expertise and publication advisory.

Built on more than 20 years' experience supporting major listed companies and their advisers, Overtone combines deep financial and regulatory expertise with advanced language technologies and a hands-on approach to delivery.

We work alongside our clients throughout the financial reporting and corporate communications lifecycle – from regulatory disclosures and sustainability reporting to investor communications, corporate publications and capital markets transactions.

As reporting requirements evolve and technology transforms the way information is produced, we believe that specialist expertise, editorial judgement and seamless integration into clients' publication processes matter more than ever.
